

The County of Dufferin and Member
Municipalities Emergency Management
Program is pleased to present
Environment Canada's Severe Weather Spotter training program

CANWARN

Participants will learn how to recognize potentially dangerous weather and send reports to Environment Canada's severe weather office using a special telephone number or an email. At the weather office, the severe weather meteorologist combines the data from satellites and radar with the information from the spotters to refine the forecast and prepare severe weather watches or warnings.
