12th Annual Corn Flower Festival at Museum

Dufferin County Museum and Archives celebrates the famous Corn Flower glassware pattern at their Annual Corn Flower Festival, on Sunday, June 6th.

Pete and Lois (Hughes) Kayser, the owners and former operators of the WJ Hughes Corn Flower Company will be on hand to answer your Corn Flower questions. Meet Krista Taylor, author of the "Canadian Identification & Price Guide to W. J. Hughes Corn Flower Glass", and Wayne Townsend, DCMA Curator and author of "Corn Flower - Creatively Canadian".

Also, planned for the day are 'share sessions', a consignment sale, live auction of Corn Flower glassware, and presentations focusing on you, the collector!

While here, be sure to visit our Corn Flower Exhibit, "Cupboards of Corn Flower". Just in time for Spring, the mezzanine Gallery features treasured pieces from the Museum's extensive collection of Corn Flower glassware, displayed within the gallery's permanent display cases and finely crafted cabinets selected from the Museum's collection. For collectors and enthusiasts of the coveted glassware, take note: this year's Corn Flower exhibit features the largest portion of the Museum's huge collection on display at one time ... over 80%!

12th Annual Corn Flower Festival takes place on Sunday, June 6th, 10am to 4pm. For more information, please contact the Dufferin County Museum and Archives. General Admission $10, children under 5 free.
